Fashionable Gathering Witnesses Afternoon Ceremony at St. Bartholomew's Church.

RECEPTION HELD

Miss Elsa L. Baar Becomes the Bride of William Johns Ralston.

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Livingston Burrill, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Livingston Burrill, to Francis O. French, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tuck French of this city and Tuxedo, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. Bartholomew's Church in the presence of a large and fashionable gathering of relatives and friends from this city, Tuxedo and Newport.

The Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of the church, and the Rev. Dr. Robert S. Wood of Tuxedo, formerly an assistant at St. Bartholomew's, were the officiating clergymen. The chancel was banked with palms, white roses and Easter lilles, and along the centre aisle were clusters of calla lilles fastened by bows of white

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her away. She wore a gown of white satin heavily veiled with old point lace and embellished with orange blossoms. A veil of tulle which was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, supporting a crown of point lace, fell over a long train of white satin edged with point lace, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids. Among her ornaments was a circlet of diamonds, the gift of the bride

ANTIQUE FURNITURE FORMS FINE EXHIBIT

Crawford Collection Is Placed on View at American Art Association.

LARGE WEDGWOOD DISPLAY

Jewelry of Diverse Character and Old Silver Also Are Shown.

The collection of original antique Engish furniture, with reproductions of old silver, much crystal, antique jewelry and other objects, belonging to the A. J. Crawford Company, was placed on public view at the American Art Association yesterday and will be sold at auction beginning April 28.

The collection contains many large pieces, such as book cases, armoires, great tables and bedsteads, in mellow old woods, designed by the famous ebonistes, and that have not only character, but simplicity. They have been assembled in the galleries with great care, and many of the groups in the display are excellent examples of successful interior decoration. The Crawford collection sale will probably be the last big art sale of the season at the American Art Association. although the book sales continue through

There is a particularly large proportion of cabinets, many of them of Chippendale. One, very large, is a book case with "break front," in mahogany, No. 460. It has glass upper doors, elaborately carved, and the cupboards and doors are also TWENTY ONE lavishly decorated with carving. No. 447, a Chippendale slope top desk, has panelled doors above and ornament drawers below, the whole in quite attrac-tive taste. There are large Chippendale mahogany wardrobes, with an investiture of silding drawers to fit them to modern costume needs, corner cabinets, hanging cabinets, women's writing desks and com-

The Wedgwood includes a basaltes medallion of Peter the Great of Russia, the largest Wedgwood ever made. There is also a gondola shaped incense vase, candelabrum and a basalt statuette of "Bacchus and Faun." The collection includes too some antique fireplaces, grates and fenders: also many tall clocks, many Gothle and Chippendale mirrors and a few prints and paintings. The Jewelry is diverse in character, comprising many settings of old paste in shoe buckles and brooches and many cameos, arrangements of seed nearls, and besides that there are

MISS KOELLING'S CONCERT.

Helen Koelling, who was to have given Helen Koelling, who was to have given a song recital much earlier in the season finally came forward last evening at Aeolian Hall. She was heard with kindness by an audience of small size. There were flowers of course, and applause was generously bestowed upon the singer's efforts. Miss Koelling had a programme which would have taxed the powers of any living soprano, but she did not seem to be in the least alarmed by the formidable task which she had set herself.
